

John Kalpus - Dr. Discovery

John Kalpus

“You want to maximize the use of technology in your organization, right?
The key lies in connecting the dots...
between technical jargon and your everyday world.”

John Kalpus, aka “Dr. Discovery,” helps answer the questions about how to better utilize and humanize technology in your environment. John helps organizations, corporations and individuals understand technology, implement technology and strategically plan for future technologies.

Topics include:

- Orchestrating Your Business in the 21st Century
- Overcoming the Fear of Technology
- 21st Century Thinking

John is a highly acclaimed computer consultant and award-winning seminar leader. He annually conducts 100 computer software and hardware training seminars helping people maximize technology and use it to become more profitable. His ability to see the BIG picture and to present highly technical information in an easy to understand format makes him a sought-after keynote speaker.

He has been called the “Tim Allen of Technology” for his unique ability to present technology in humorous and thought-provoking ways. John is available for your next conference, or convention, to help set the tone of the meeting as an opening speaker, or to put technology into perspective as a closing speaker. Breakout sessions designed to educate your participants on the future of technologies are also available.
